North Central Region Resource List

To ensure that children and youth are connected to the care they need, below is a list of community-based supports and services. This list includes mental health evaluation and treatment resources along with related supports and services.

When in crisis, families can call or text 988 for support, request a mobile response by calling 988 or 211, and press 1, then 1 again, or visit an Urgent Crisis Center at one of three community-based locations. For more information on 988 go to https://988lifeline.org/

Urgent Crisis Center locations are listed below. For more information visit https://portal.ct.gov/dcf/behavioral-health-partnership/home/urgent-crisis-centers-for-children?language=en_US or scan QR Code

Contact Community Pathways at 877-381-4193 (option 1) to discuss available assistance and connect with community-based support and evidence-based interventions.

The Assisted Intervention Matching (AIM) Tool can be used to help providers and parents identify well-matched services to meet a child's behavioral health needs.
